Excerpt from The Personal History, Adventures, Experience, and Observation of David Copperfield, Vol. 2 of 3: The Younger of Blunderstone Rookery (Which He Never Meant to Be Published on Any Account)

When the chambermaid tapped at my door at eight O'clock, and informed me that my Shaving water was outside, I felt severely the having no occasion for it, and blushed in my bed. The suspicion that She laughed too, when she said it, preyed upon my mind all the time I was dressing, and gave me, I was conscious, a sneaking and guilty air when I passed her on the staircase, as I was going down to breakfast. I was so sensitively aware, indeed, of being younger than I could have Wished, that for some time I could not make up my mind to pass her at all, under the ignoble circumstances of the case but, hearing her there With a broom, stood peeping out of Window at King Charles on horseback, surrounded by a maze of hackney coaches, and looking anything but regal in a drizzling rain and a dark brown fog, until I was admonished by the waiter that the gentleman was waiting for me.

It was not in the coffee-room that I found Steer forth expecting me, but in a snug private apartment.
