Black Men in the Image of God

Dorothy Winbush Riley has assembled a rich and varied collection of photography, fine art, and sculpture depicting the past, present, and future of men of African descent. These vibrant full-color and black-and-white images portray the tenderness and strength of people of the diaspora, with words from the Bible, along with prose and poetry by James Weldon Johnson, Paul Robeson, Denzel Washington, and other renowned African American writers and figures. There is also a companion volume, Black Women in the Image of God.
